

EAST MEETS WEST: Unprecedented 10-Year Medical Research and Education Collaborative

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
CASE WESTERN RESERVE
UNIVERSITY

MARGARET W. WONG
& ASSOC. CO., LPA
ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Margaret W. Wong

Margaret Wong is the principal attorney at Margaret W. Wong & Associates Co., L.P.A., a firm that is nationally and internationally renowned for its knowledge in immigration and nationality law.

An immigrant herself, Ms. Wong was one of the first non-U.S. citizens licensed to practice law in New York and Ohio. She is now a U.S. citizen, and her practice includes seven attorneys and 25 other staff members. Over the last three decades Margaret Wong has helped employers obtain work permits for their executives and has assisted thousands of people in coming to the United States to become permanent residents, advance their educations, work, and pursue opportunities. Her clients come from every country around the world, from every walk of life, and range from governmental and corporate to ordinary people. Over the years, she has won numerous awards for her legal work as well as for her philanthropy, including the Margaret Ireland Award from the Cleveland Women's City Club and the Ellis Island Medal of Honor.

George Elias Kikano, MD

Dr. George E. Kikano, M.D., serves as Vice Dean for Community Health and is the Director of the Weatherhead Institute for Medicine and Community Health, which involves faculty across the University in programs that explore the benefits of comprehensive and personalized medical care. Dr. Kikano, the Dorothy Jones Weatherhead Professor, is Chairman of the Department of Family Medicine and Community Health at Case Western Reserve University.

In his decade as chairman, he has maintained the Department's existing strengths and initiated programs of distinction such as the House Calls program, which serves 300 homebound elderly people. This program was inspired by a patient who ended up admitted to the hospital because she was unable to get a pharmacy to refill her prescription. In addition to serving patients and championing research, Dr. Kikano has worked to attract more students to the family medicine profession and overseen the development of an urban medicine track with the curriculum of Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine.

Li Li, MD, PhD, M.P.H

Dr. Li Li is Associate Professor of Family Medicine, Epidemiology and Biostatistics, and Oncology at Case Western Reserve University and an attending physician of family medicine at University Hospitals Case Medical Center. His research interests primarily involve cancer molecular/genetic epidemiology and preventive oncology. Dr. Li has received multiple NIH research grants and contributed significantly to many large multiple-investigator efforts, leading one of the main projects in the Case Center for Transdisciplinary Research on Energetics and Cancer.

Dr. Li is also Associate Director for Prevention and Control at Case Comprehensive Cancer Center, overseeing population research that cuts across all aspects of translational cancer research. He initiated a research collaborative with Shanghai Zhabei District Health Bureau in China and established a large community-based cohort of 48,000 people to study lifestyle and genetic determinants of chronic diseases in the Zhabei community. He also instituted a School of Medicine student exchange program with Zhejiang University School of Medicine in Hangzhou, China and with Fudan University School of Public Health in Shanghai, China.

Case Western Reserve University
School of Medicine

and

Margaret W. Wong, Host

presenting featured speakers

George E. Kikano, MD

and

Li Li, MD, PhD, MPH

East Meets West:

Unprecedented 10-Year Medical Research and Education Collaborative —

CWRU School of Medicine and Shanghai Zhabei Health Bureau are defining a shared dilemma, a rise in obesity, diabetes, heart disease, and cancer from the increasingly Westernized lifestyle.

中西樂空前

10 年醫學研究和教育協作

(CWRU 醫學院及上海閘北健康局正在定義共用的困境、
肥胖、 糖尿病、 心臟病和癌症上升從增加西化的生活方式)

Thursday, July 19, 2012

5:30 p.m. – Reception

6:00 p.m. – Presentation

Offices of Margaret W. Wong & Associates
3150 Chester Avenue

Complimentary valet parking at front door

RSVP by Monday, July 16 to Ivana Wilson at imw10@case.edu or 216.368.2574

(Please include your name and the name of your guest for nametag purposes.)

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

CASE WESTERN RESERVE
UNIVERSITY

10900 Euclid Avenue
Cleveland, OH 44106-4923
(800) 315-4438 • www.case.edu